

The First Episode of the Podcast Was Released!

I interviewed Max Zamkow from Third Act ventures. We talked about pitching in the dark and age tech investments. The post contains both the audio version and the transcribed interview.

Take Me There

3 AgeTech Accelerators are Launching a New Cohort

In London, Zinc's Mission 3 is accepting applications until July 21st, in Hartford, there's Upward Labs', and online, Silver Moonshots Virtual Accelerator.

To read about them and other AgeTech accelerators, check out this post.

Upward Labs and the Tel Aviv chapter of Aging2.0 hosted a meetup, which included pitches from 3 AgeTech startups (and more!) I attended the meetup summed and it up for you.

Go To Meetup Recap

The Elderly and the Internet

Which seniors use the internet at rates approaching or even exceeding the overall population? Guest post by Dr. Nikola Djordjevic.

Reports Worth Reading

Deloitte insights published the Future of Aging report, Link-Age Connect published the 2019 technology survey study, and Socitm advisory published it's Care Technology Landscape Review

Noteworthy News Items

- Insuretech startup The Helper Bees is partnering with long-term care insurer CNA.
- Smart home startup Billy announced it's consumer launch.
- Medline acquires CareConnection.
- Best Buy acquires another remote senior monitoring service.
- Comcast is developing an in-home health monitoring device.
- Pillo Health Closes $11 Million Funding Round Led by Stanley Ventures.
- K4Connect and Ziegler Link•Age fund form a strategic partnership.
- The state of California will test Cherry Home's home monitoring for seniors solution.
- Research shows robot pets help the elderly avoid loneliness.
- New £20m research center in the UK will develop new technologies to create dementia.
- VR company Rendever is going after the home-care market.
- Papa's "Grandkids On Demand" program is expanding into 7 more states.
- Aetna is partnering with Carelinx to support it's members as they age in place.

In (in)
Copyright © 2019 The Gerontechnologist, All rights reser	/ed.
Want to change how you receive these emails? You can update your preferences or unsubscribe from this	list .